If Pest can have a Gerbeaud, then Buda deserves Émile. Guests can find almost everything they need in the II. district villa: the ground-floor counter hides delicious desserts, while the prestigious gallery is perfect for a breakfast, business meetings with coffee, an afternoon tea or a late night champagne. Not to mention the charming garden, which could easily become our favorite starting or ending point for summer nights if we are in the area. If you long for some culinary pampering, the newest member of the Gerbeaud House is a must-try! Distance from the hotel: approx. 20 minute drive.

The main aim at La Pampa Steakhouse is to provide a touch of Argentina to the guests by offering the finest quality steaks and wines which reflect the passion of this country. Their chefs define all of the steakhouse classics and the menu features a wide selection of signature prime cuts of Angus and beef charred to perfection, as well as poultry and seafood specialties followed by exquisite sides and desserts. La Pampa is also proud of its extensive wine list which features the best wines produced in Hungary, in addition to Argentinean, Chilean and South African wines of exceptional quality.

Japanika

Casual restaurant with Japanese Cuisine

Tel.: (+36-1) 613-1508

<https://www.facebook.com/japanikasushibar/>

Japanika is a restaurant chain that can be found in several metropolises in the world. There are no hand fans and paintings of Geishas on the walls here, as rather a modern loft-style, wood and concrete dominate this place. The Budapest unit's advantage is that it is found at Szent István Square, so sitting outside on the terrace, we can admire the amazing view to the Basilica. Considering the meal selection, we find everything that is Japanese on the menu; Japanese pickles, soy beans, and spring rolls, but the main star is still sushi. We can choose from various options, such as sushis wrapped in eggs or avocado, as well as nori sushi. In addition to the delicious dishes, we also recommend the tasty cocktail concoctions. Distance from the Hotel: approximately 1 minute walk

At TOKIO everything is slightly cyberpunk: the dishes are beautiful, the cocktails, the music is new, the ramen is delicious. This restaurant and bar moved from Japan and replaced Kyoto in Széchenyi Square. Neon lights, LED walls and a gigantic robot foot - this is where the world of TOKIO begins. Its exciting and infinite kitchen ranges from ramen and miso through tiger prawn tempura and various wok dishes to sushi compositions. Choose a Wasabi cocktail or a TOKIO mojito to sip on during lunch or friendly chats. Distance from the Hotel: approximately 7

Lose yourself in the unique taste of authentic Japanese cuisine. Besides irresistible meals, which are always made of fresh ingredients and prepared with special care, Sushi Sei kindly recommends traditional Japanese spirits, as perfect complements to their dishes. They await you with new courses, in addition to the popular and regular ones. While keeping to the traditions, they also put special emphasis on innovation and developing our menu to include a broad range of flavours.

This elongated cellar, furnished with natural colors near the corner of Dob Street and the Grand Boulevard, lures guests with high-value lunch menus and a rather impressive wine list. In 2017, the reviewers of Michelin Guide also noticed the restaurant's charm and received a coveted Bib Gourmand recommendation. The "gastropub" closes for a while after lunchtime and reopens for dinner in the evening. The fresh kitchen, led by the two young chefs Andor Giczi and Szabolcs Nagy, is rather convincing. The service is accurate yet laid-back. We Krak'n Town, opened in 2316, (it's not a typo!) is not only Budapest's first and only "steampunk salon", but also the center of craft beer, classic English cuisine, and resistance. The interior looks like it could have been designed by Jules Verne; there are gearwheels, pilot goggles, copper sections, and Victorian motifs everywhere. An ever-changing selection of eight craft-beer manufactures are on tap, while the menu features meals that would truly please an Englishman, Scottish eggs with mash, black pudding, steak, different meat pies, and mouthwatering sandwiches. It is worthwhile to venture in the cave of the mechanic kraken. Distance from the Hotel: approximately 15 minute drive
